

ALEXIS HARTWELL-GOBESKE

PERSONAL STATEMENT

Alexis Hartwell-Gobeske is a skilled cannabis attorney and has been actively engaged in the cannabis industry since 2014 as counsel for licensees and applicants. She recently served as a mentor to the Social Equity in Cannabis Technical Assistance Program where she guided mentees through the initial application process and provided valuable instruction on topics relevant to aspiring cannabis licensees, such as 'employment law basics', 'understanding corporate formalities', 'real estate nuts and bolts', and 'regulatory compliance'. Being entrenched in the cannabis industry, Alexis has witnessed the lack of diversity among business owners fueled by significant barriers to entry, including without limitation the high cost of start-up and regulatory hurdles in licensing. Alexis desires to use her legal expertise to help social equity applicants operate successful cannabis business that will build generational wealth and community development.
