

Amy Weston

I would be a good candidate for the position of Privacy and Data Security Law Committee Co-Chair because I have a demonstrated and active interest in privacy law. I am the current incumbent of this position and during my incumbency I have organized, facilitated or moderated multiple Mini-CLEs on the topics of privacy and data security. I am a CIPP-US certified privacy professional with 17 years of experience advising technology clients on privacy related matters. I am a member of the IAPP's Privacy Bar Section Advisory Board and currently lead my firm's Privacy Law practice group. I enjoy collaborating with peers and am interested in connecting with other privacy professionals in Washington State and the Seattle area to raise awareness of and educate legal professionals about the ever-expanding developments in privacy and data security law.
